

What people are saying about Kendra

.
.
.

Luck was in our favor when we met our Guest Artist of the month Kendra D'Angora a few years ago at our Local Community Arts Center in Plymouth, MA. I was looking for quality art classes for our two home schooled children and that is exactly what we found and more with Kendra. She offered a varied array of art mediums, tools and projects for her " aspiring art students" with a bit of Art History on the side! Read more of the interview...

.
.
.

"For the third prize I chose Kendra D'Angora for her graphite drawing, Taken, a beautifully portrayed portrait of a young female who gazes directly out at the viewer. The artist expertly uses the pencil to create light, dark, and texture."
Rachel Rosenfield Lafo

.
.
.

"Your drawings are superb... as are your pastels... love them all."
Jack Dickerson – Fine Art

.
.
.

"Kendra's shining qualities with children are confidence, trust, safety and pure love."
Marcia Nickerson

.
.
.

"Kendra is patient, loving and kind. Her background in the arts is indicative of her creative nature which helps her seek original solutions when dealing with students."
Stephanie Stigliano

.
.
.

"As a high school art teacher, I can truthfully say that Kendra has many of the qualities that are necessary for the teaching profession; among them is a sincere desire and patience to assist others in the learning process."
Mary Lou Montagna

.
.
.

.
"Kendra is extremely dependable and someone I can always rely on. She is also a very talented artist. I believe in this regard both she and the students can benefit from their experience with each other. "

Alberto Salvatore

.
.
.

"Kendra has taught "Creating Clay" for the Special Activities Program at the Amos A. Lawrence School in Brookline, Ma. For several years. Her classes have an an incredibly strong following and are always oversubscribed. She has an outstanding rapport with students of all ages and is skilled at working with different styles and personalities. Kendra is reliable, creative, and truly makes a connection with the students along with being a skilled artist."

Carolyn Grimes

.
.
.

"Kendra is passionate about her art; her own and the potential for creativity in all people. She has a natural way that allows people to feel completely at ease and eager to have fun with art."

.
.
.

"Kendra is a warm and gifted teacher who consistently plans innovative and creative projects for her students. As a professional artist, her creativity is natural and effortless. Her warmth and enthusiasm for imparting that creativity to students is unsurpassed among the teachers I have encountered in my son's educational experience."

Michele Daves

.
.
.

"Kendra is a wonderful potter and illustration artist who brings her creativity and imagination to her work with students. Her relationships with her students, her many artistic achievements, her energetic and inspiring nature all augment her classes."

Terry Gould

.
.
.

"Kendra's energy and creative strengths, in collaboration with her colleagues, provided our children with a dynamic and tremendously enjoyable first entree` into school. "

Julie F. Leitman

.
.
.

"Kendra is extremely talented. Her work is always provocative, intelligent, and reflective. She is very driven and a diligent individual; a goal oriented person. She is constanly set on improving herself; always wanting to learn more and challenge what she already knows."

Danielle Porter

.
.

"In the capacity of professor at Massachusetts College of Art, I have known Kendra for 24 years. As a student she demonstrated exceptional creativity, especially in rendering two and three dimensions. She was always considerate, committed, and communicative as a member of the Clay department."

Ben Ryterband

.
.